7 Seconds is all you get for a website visitor to make a decision about your business

When prospects land on your homepage, do they decide to stick around or search again? The solution to the feared "back button" lies in the power of design.

Design is the key contributor to forming a long-lasting first impression about your business. Prospects are most likely to Google your business before taking any other next steps. Therefore, your website is one of your most visible and important business resources.

Interactivity + Usability

Design is a form of direction. Clean designs with visual hierarchy intuitively point to important calls to action like "buy now," "contact us," or "find a location!" Too many websites hide these vital action items in a maze of disorganized content & distracting design.
